

Montreal Gardens and Gastronomy June 16-18, 2017

Are you passionate about plants? Do you love great food? Join us for a weekend of gardens and gastronomy, exploring two aspects of Montreal culture that set this vibrant city apart!

What's special about this trip

- You'll visit public and private Montreal gardens with a professional landscape designer. She'll put each garden in context, help identify plants, discuss color combinations, explore planting strategies, give you new perspectives on your own gardens, and lead you to gardens you wouldn't find on your own.
- Montreal's thriving food culture takes many forms: markets, restaurants, bistros, wine bars, specialty food shops, patisseries, boulangeries, fromageries. Our guided walking tours, tastings, and group meals will introduce you to many of the city's unique flavors and aromas.
- Our small group (6 -10 travelers), 2 knowledgeable leaders, and time to explore on your own assure a highly personalized, interactive experience. Beautiful views, fabulous food, and engaging conversations will inspire and energize you.

Included

- Three days of guided neighborhood walks, interpretive garden visits, and meetings with local garden enthusiasts
- Three gourmet lunches, 2 group dinners, chocolate and pastry tastings
- Entrance to 5 gardens, including the Montreal Botanical Gardens
- Montreal Métro and bus tickets
- Additional Montreal addresses for free time and future reference

Not included

- Lodging (we can suggest accommodations that fit your budget and needs)
- Personal shopping expenses

Please note: An enhanced drivers license or a US passport is required. We're hoping for good weather, but rain won't deter us — bring a raincoat and/or umbrella just in case. We'll use the Métro to move between the city's neighbors, just as Montrealers do. Our travels will include stairs and dirt paths. If you're not accustomed to walking, we encourage you to begin walking on a regular basis now. This preparation will increase your stamina in Montreal - meaning you'll enjoy the experience that much more.
